

Sarah Damianos

I earned my teaching credential in 1985 and taught for eight years in private schools here in southern California with middle school as my focus. In this same time frame I assisted in coaching girls sports. Athletics and outdoor activities are one of my delights as well as cooking, reading, and working with youth in my church.

When my first son was born I came home to be a mother which in time included home schooling. I enjoyed exploring and learning with my boys for most of their elementary years. This was a rich time that built relationships with my children that I now cherish. Home schooling broadened and enhanced my teaching abilities, as my two sons had very different abilities and learning styles.

I am thankful to be a part of the GSDA staff having yet another exciting teaching adventure where I intend to assist you, home schooling families in having a productive, learning experience. I am looking forward to learning along side you as together we do what is best for children.