

Kristie Remaly

Hello, my name is Kristie Remaly. I was born and raised in Pennsylvania. I attended Kutztown University, where I graduated with a degree in elementary/early childhood education. After graduation, I taught full-day kindergarten at a private school for one year. In the fall of 2001, I moved to Hawaii to be with my husband, who is in the Navy. In Hawaii, I taught 4th, 5th, and 6th grades at Waipahu Elementary School. I also attended the University of Hawaii. I received my Master's degree in elementary education in 2003. In 2003, my husband was transferred to San Diego, California. I substitute taught in San Diego, California until accepting a position with Greater San Diego Academy. Currently, I am the lead consultant at the Jamul site and the high school lead for the school. I recently completed the doctoral program in educational leadership at the University of Phoenix. My husband and I have a beautiful little girl, Kailani, and a handsome little boy, Zachary. We also have three spoiled kitties and a fun-loving boxer.
