National art contest asks students what green spaces mean to them

Non-profit Project EverGreen and Birds & Blooms magazine, a Reader's Digest publication, announce the "Art of Green Spaces Poster Contest."

The contest asks students in kindergarten through 12th grade to create a poster that exemplifies their artistic skills while describing what "green spaces" mean to them.

Submitted posters should be created on 11x17in paper. Any art supplies may be used to create the artwork and all entries must include the following information with the submission: full name, address, city, state, zip code, phone number and e-mail address. There is no cost to enter.

A panel of art teachers chosen by Project EverGreen will determine the winning posters for four age levels: kindergarten through second grade; third grade through sixth grade; seventh grade through ninth grade; and 10th grade through 12th grade. First-, second- and third-place artists in each age group will receive an Amazon gift card worth $100, $50 and $25, respectively.

Submissions should be mailed to Project EverGreen, Box 156, New Prague, MN, 56071. Submissions will be accepted between Feb. 1, 2011, and March 31, 2011. Judging will take place in April 2011 and winners will be notified in May 2011.
